PLANS TO REORGANIZE ACCOUNTS OF THE NAVY

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer, just before leaving Washington for Hamilton, Mass., announced that he is going to reorganize the accounts of the department. He said that the authorization of the mavy supply account in the general deficiency bill makes it possible for him to place the accounts of the department on a "business basis" in accordance with the recommendations of the civil expert accountants and the best commercial practice.

The secretary expressed the fear that the eight hours a day provision may make the cost of building a battleship in a navy yard prohibitive. He hopes to be able to try in one of the colliers new building a gear drive device for propelling machinery and an electric drive in another collier. Associated Press.

Last Week We Stirred Up the Trade With Some Lace Curtain Prices

The values offered were convincing; the result is many odd lots of one, two and three pairs. These will be closed at enticing reductions. Better see them if you have rooms that need a little freshening. Every make is represented. We cannot name them all. You cannot well ask for anything that we cannot show you in pleasing assortment. All the novelties of the season just closing are represented. In many cases you cannot see them elsewhere as yet, and the prices will be half and less than half than you can buy new goods for later. "FOREWARNED" should be "FOREARMED" in this respect.

Mothers of Girls Save $1.15 on a $3.00 Desirable Dress

Permit us to explain the emphasis on the word desirable. For the reason that there is not an undesirable feature about them. Perfect in style, fit and workmanship and strictly appropriate to the present season-and the price is but little more than cost of material.

NOW YOUR MENTAL QUESTION AND THE ANSWER.

If these dresses are so very desirable, how can you afford to sell them so much less than the regular value? Answer:

Ten days ago we received a wire from the maker of our best girls' dresses, stating: "Owing to mill failure have just purchased enough standard percales to make five thousand dresses. How many can you use at about half price?" We wired for three hundred; one hundred of them arrived yesterday, by express, with word that balance is coming one week later. See show window display of
